PRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1834

EXIT CORTINAS.

This outlaw has occupied more or less of the public attention for some time past. By referring to our Mexican news in another column, the reader will see that the French General of Brigade Du Pain has performed a painful duty, and with a handful of French airelings has sent the guerilla reeling back to the wilds of Western Texas. So exit Court-MAS, and enter Johnny Rebel FORD at Brownsville, to conscript the people and give the French forces cotton, and receive arms and ammunition. All of this might have been prevented. Mexico could have been saved from an imperial Austrian despotism, and might have been part of the United States now, if she had one man capable of governing men and leading them to victory. But COBTINAS is gone, and we are glad of it. Had Dr Pain caught and hung him society would have given a sigh of relief, as it did when MORGAN dled.

Did They Mean Anything? A McClellan club at Hartford has taken rooms over a coffin warehouse.

McCtellan's Answer. The Country to McClellan .- Are you for war or McClellon to the Country.-YES, SIR!

THE CASAR OF THE SOUTH.

We should rather call STEBLING PRICE the "PELISSIEE of the South," judging from bis inhuman slaughter of unarmed men, with the exception that PELISSIER's bloody deeds in Algeria were necessary. Phich's doings in Missouri are wanton and uncalled for. But PRICE is in a tight place, we think. He cannot possibly save his army. It is in the enemy's country, without a base of supplies or line of retreat, or a great general to extricate it from the tolls of General A. J. SMITH. It will certainly be destroyed, and PRICE seems to know it, for, like the devil incarnate and desperate that he is, we find him moving about with the sword in one hand and the torch in the other, reveling in a carnival of blood and fire! But an end to this will soon he announced by Generals Mowen and

Besides this PRICE has injured his Demoeratic friends in the North, for he has surely carried Missouri for Lincoln and Johnson. So the Rebel rapine and murder will have one good effect in Missouri.

SMITH, and then will come the righteous retribution, which we trust will be "death to PRICE's thieves and murderers!"

McClelian Wounded. An exchange has a report that McClellan was severely wounded in the Fisher's Hill battle.

Not Birds of a Feather. Pendleton voted in Congress against the resolution of thanks to General McCiclian for his pregise of victory in Virginia! Yet now these men are linked together, and each is ashamed of

THE DISCIPLES OF JOHN LAW. The present age is remarkable for many things. It has been called the age of steam, of lightning, of iron, and of brass. We have great steamships that skim the Atlantic within ten days, from port to port. We have steamboats rivalling the dolphin in swiftness, skurrying through our streams. We talk by lightning, and in speaking with our neighbors on the other side of the ocean, will actually get ahead of ourselves and steal a march on time. Iron enters into the composition of everything useful, from a palatial mansion to a saucepan. And as for brass, many think that this metal has achieved a Waterloo victory over brains. But there is another most notable feature of the age, which our annalists will not be at liberty to forget. It

There have been money negotiators whom the world has agreed to call great. There was the right-hand man and the sheet-anchor statesman of Louis LE GRAND-the sagacious Cornerr-who found resources for his master's ambition when France had been drained for the twentieth time by protracted wars-a man who really seemed to have the gift of Fortunatus. Before that period, SULLY had taught HENRY of Navarre how to raise a kingdom from penury. ROBERT MORRIS bought our independence from his own pocket. ALEXANDER HAMILTON showed our new Republic how to bender its credit respectable abroad. But our financiers are not moved to emulate such examples. They ness over them all to fix upon the Scotch adventurer, John Law, as their bean ideal. The Mississippi scheme, with its dazzling falsic of promise, erected upon a basis of send, realises their conception or what, in the pe after tongue of the Brokers' Board, is styted " an operation,"

Their aim is to get a wide credit, no matter how desperate may be the prospect of ever maeting their engagements, or how valueless the stock they yead. Give then credit, and they can bag all they wish of Fortune's game. The ruin of immireds whom their schemes may ficeee-the blasting of hopes that are the very life of the soul as lar as the world of trade is concerned—the beggary of families whom their over-reaching cupidity may rob, are searcely worth a thought. John Law was the prince of financiers, and we are his disciples.

Our Republican fortune-seekers, intoxicated with the gilded dreams of sudden wealth, quit the certain paths of industry for investment in a hundred companies, which have not the shadow of the basis of the Mississippi scheme, and nothing to support their credit but the battle-dore and shuttle-cock play of the gamblers in fancy stocks.

Could the Scotch adventurer come back from the grave in these days, even with the awful shadow of ruin weighing upon his memory, he would find that the world has not made much progress in financial wisdom since the period when he was the pride of the French

He would be astoniahed to discover how great a man he could become on Wall or Third street. With what a relish he would perfect a new copper mining or oil company ! need specify no further. His disciples are so numerous, and their schemes so finely drawn in emulation of his glorious example, that his many the state of the function of the function of his glorious example, that his many that his beautiful to attend her function of fine function of his glorious example, that his many that his beautiful to attend the function of fine function of his glorious example, that his beautiful function of his glorious example, that his What a splendid field for his genius! But we absence will not materially decrease the wealth or the woe achieved by the specious C A R D speculators. It might be well, however, to build a monument to LAW somewhere in tha vicinity of our money marts, the noble financlers who have realized the most at the expense of their dupes being permitted to lay the corner-stone.

A Decided "Straw." A party of Kentuckians voted for Presiden the other day on a steemer running from Louis-ville to Henderson. The result was as follows:-Lucoin, one hundred and fifteen; McClellay, thirty-three-or nearly four to one.

Short but Effective Speech of Mr. P. a. On January 9, 1863, Mr. Dunn rese in the House of Representatives and said:

"I ask the anarimous consent of the House for leave to introduce a bill to facilitate the transportation of trops, stores, and the mails of the United States between the city of Washington, ont of Rocks, and the city of Pit-sburg."

Mr. Pendl ton rose and said: -"I object."
Objection being made, the bill had to be over. THE LIE ABOUT THE PRESIDENT'S

SALARY. The ridiculous falsehood which was put in circulation by the Copperhead press that Mr. LINCOLN has drawn his salary in gold, has been nailed to the counter by L. E. CHITTEN-DEN, late Register of the Treasury, who had charge of the disbursements of that nature. The President and his Cabinet, and all officials except certain foreign ministers, receive their pay in greenbacks, from which the revenue tax is regularly deducted. The wide circulation of such a base and wicked lie in almost every Democratic newspaper shows the desperate straits of the enemies of the Government, and indicates their weakness.

" Hot-Mutton-Pic" Demacracy. George Sennott, of Boston, illustrates a speech at Roxbury, Massachusetts, a day or two ago, by this little parable :-"One freezing February morning a "One freezing February morning a negro-hawked mutton pies in a basket around Faneail Hall Square, roaring out, 'Hot mutton pies! Hot mutton pies!' A teamster bought and tried to tite one, but found it frozen as solid as the carb-stone. 'What do you call them hot for, you black and blue swindler?' yelled the teamster to the shivering pieman, 'Wy-wy-a white man guy'em to me hot dis mornin'.' dey was hot wen I got 'em this mornin'! 'Well, you fool, it didn't take ten minutes to freeze them in that old basket. Why call them had now?' We-Gol didn't take ten minutes to freeze them in that old basket. Why call them hot now? Wy—God bless you, dat's de name ob 'em—de name ob 'em! It I didn't holler de right name nobody won'in't tetch 'em! You want me to holler froze pies, I suppose? No, Sa! You can't fool me dat way! "Thus it is with the Democratic party. They received from Jefferson and Jackson, as a free gift, their principles. Those gifts they meanly put up for sale and hawked round in the deally market of slavery to freeze up in their shabby old party basket. They roar out, 'Democratic principles! —for sale being understood. And when you pay the price or your vote for them, you find slavery bennumbing your fingers, paralyzing your tongue, contracting your heart, and turning your stomach. Ask ing your heart, and turning your stomach. Ask the swindlers why they call such stuff democracy, and they tell you blandly that Mr. Jefferson gave them the original article—that they have kept it ever since-that it is just as good as new, only no quite so warm, perhaps—and that you really musta't quarrel with the pieman, for what he calls it is its name. If you want it more demo-cratic, you may take it home to your own State and scarm it; but in the meantime do not inter-rupt the sales."

LATE AND IMPORTANT FROM MEX (00.

The French in Possession of Maiamoras Exiles Jump out of the Frying Paninto the Fire-They Flee to Brownsville and are Seat to Shreveport as Conscripts. For the following interesting and important aformation we are indebted to S. W. Pierson,

By news received to the 21st instant from Matamoras by the commander of the French vessel in this port, it appears that General Da Pain, of the French army, took possession of that city on the 20th instant.

Cortinas had previously fled the country upon the arrival of the French. A large number of exiles from New Orleans, living in Matamoras, went over to Brownsville for protection from Colonel Ford, of the Rebel army, who politely informed them all that he was sorry. but he was obliged to send them all to Shreve-port as conscripts; and they were accordingly pisced under guard for that purpose immediately.

General Du Pain was very sorry he did not catch Cortinas, as he hoped to have the pleasure of hanging him.—N. O. Times, 28th. -Norman F.
